

Former Arkansas Governor Mike Huckabee & The War on Terror

- I believe that we are currently engaged in a world war. This war is not a conventional war, and these terrorists are not a conventional enemy.
- The top priority of the President as Commander in Chief is first and foremost protecting our own citizens.
- With a focus on renewed diplomacy and inclusion, we can accomplish the goals of our nation without having to go it alone.
- During the Cold War, we had hawks and doves, but this new war requires us to be a phoenix, rising reborn to meet each new challenge and seize each new opportunity.
- As President, I will fight this war hard, but I will also fight it smart, using all our political, economic, diplomatic, and intelligence weapons as well as our military might.
- The terrorists train in small, scattered groups. We can accomplish a great deal with swift, surgical air strikes and commando raids by our elite units.
- We have to get tough with President Musharaff who has allowed Al Qaeda and the Taliban to have bases in Waziristan.
- We don't have a dog in the fight between Sunnis and Shiites - our enemy is Islamic extremism in all its guises.
- The long-term solution is to empower moderates in the region by attacking the underlying conditions that breed terror.
- Part of winning the war on terror is achieving energy independence.
- I believe in the Powell Doctrine of using overwhelming force to accomplish a mission.
- I have the executive and crisis management experience, the judgment and the temperament to be an effective commander in chief.
- I will expand the army and increase the defense budget.
